

Origins:

that which has the power to know,
complete, sole, in and of itself unique,
arising from the mound,
soon to speak.

Then comes the beginning of distinctions and divisions.

From the power of knowing
comes a knowing of power.

This knowing becomes complete
when its fulfillment brings scission.

Set regards Horus...

It is a birth of a birth...

He who is source of all power gazes upon The Other.

In the gazing, he becomes Other

Other looks back at Origin

and knows his Source.

Joan Lansberry, 1-8-09

(Inspired a bit by 'Pythagorean number mysticism')